

Armstrong regularly astounds doctors at the University of Texas by "plodding" along at a heart rate of 185 bpm. "I just don't seem to generate as much lactic acid," he says.